ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT DESCRIBES GERMAN VICTORY OVER RUMANIANS.

OPEN FIELD WARFARE

Infantrymen, Relieved After Two Years of Trench Fighting, Rush Into Fray With Songs—Rumanian Defense.

At the Head of Predeal Pass, Rumanian Frontline, with General von Falkenhayn's Army, Oct. 18, by Couriers to Berlin, via London, Oct. 24.—In yesterday's battle around Predeal Pass the Associated Press correspondent visited various German and Rumanian positions, where the men, undisturbed by Rumanian fire, kept up fearful bombardments of the opposing positions in the campaign of the invasion of Rumania. The men went to their work in almost a holiday spirit, for it is with a sense of deep relief that the Germans and Hungarians here have left behind them trench warfare of other regions and thrown themselves into open field maneuvers against the Rumanians.

It was scarcely believable that after two years of strenuous fighting at the front, infantrymen should rush to the assault with songs, yet it is a fact to which the universal feeling here of dealing with a foe who has yet to learn every trick of modern warfare contributes much. Though the German and Hungarian infantrymen were about to rush into the fire of Rumanian rifles and machine guns, they were in the situation completely, saying the worst of open field work was preferable to trench drudgery.

Officers explained the change in tactics would make the Rumanian forces, owing to the novelty and the fact that the central powers' troops are best suited for maneuvering because of their training long that line, the "predeal" battle is one of the few open field actions witnessed in this war by correspondents, who were able to approach within less than 3,000 yards of the skirmish line. At 11 a. m. German artillery opened a desultory fire on Russian trenches on a mountain five thousand feet high, which an hour later reached the Rumanian line. The fire was directed against the trenches, some 500 feet below the summit. For a quarter of an hour the Rumanians stuck to their trenches, but then they were driven back by the German artillery. The Rumanians thus far seemingly had not been impressed, the artillery increased its fire.

The Rumanian infantry still held on for a time, but finally broke across the slope like a swarm of ants as the German and Hungarian infantry came in view. German artillery followed up the fleeing Rumanians with shrapnel and the manner in which the fire pursued the Rumanians appeared almost uncanny.

On a ridge leading from the mountain, the Rumanians finally reached their second positions. A full ensued. A few minutes before 2 p. m. they decided to resist. The German artillery, ably supported by some Hungarian batteries, repeated the work of the morning and the infantry then rushed forward. In a comparatively short time the objective was gained. The ground being extremely difficult, the Rumanians endeavored to forward infantry reinforcements through the town of Predeal, but they were repulsed. The German and Hungarian guns inside of fifteen miles blew up half the town. The Rumanian forces were obliged to seek shelter in the big cities they gained, passing through German infantry fire at long range.

The Predeal battle was not remarkable for severity, but it was of great interest because it was the first time in the present war, at least in the Rumanian theater, that the Rumanians showed signs of being out of range for being taken off. The Rumanian artillery, therefore, made an unusually poor showing. The Rumanian infantry did relatively better, but they were out of the murderous German and Hungarian shells.

There was nowhere observable a tendency to underestimate the Rumanians, but the Rumanian General Falkenhayn's army spoke frankly of their many handicaps. They said the Rumanian general staff had overlooked some of the most important lessons of the present war, for instance, the absence from Rumanian positions of barbed wire, which is replaced by shallow pits. This is the Rumanians have been without much time by blank movements and superior opposing artillery, the significance of which may be better understood when it is known that the Rumanians constantly had numerical superiority, in one instance thirty to one. As nearly all armies in the present war have done, the Rumanians are shooting badly, though an improvement already is discernible. The losses of General Falkenhayn's army are said to have been light. An officer of the general staff of the Rumanians said that in the battle of Kronstadt the losses in dead were less than the number of guns captured from the Rumanians. The Rumanians, however, but this was an exceptional case, and occasionally the Rumanian infantry shows up comparatively well.

Take Town on Danube. Berlin, Oct. 24.—German and Austro-Hungarian forces after violent engagements south of Kronstadt yesterday captured Predeal, says the German official statement today. Six hundred prisoners were taken. The capture of the Rumanian town of Roshova, in Dobruja, on the Danube, was announced today by the war office.

Medjidie on the Tchernavoda-Constantza railroad, has been captured. The army of Field Marshal von Mackensen has taken prisoner more than 6,000 Rumanians and Russians.

Admit Dobruja Loss. Petrograd, via London, Oct. 24.—The occupation of Constantza and Medjidie in Dobruja by German and Austro-Hungarian forces in today's war office report. Under hostile pressure, says the statement, the Rumanians have evacuated the town of Dobruja and the Rumanian army has been driven back to the Tchernavoda-Constantza railroad.

WIFE OF KAISER'S FIFTH SON IS
RED CROSS NURSE ON FIRING LINE

Princess Oscar.

While other members of royalty have been content to confine their activities to the alleviation of the sufferings of those war victims who either have not been to the firing line, or have been there and have been incapacitated and returned, Princess Oscar, wife of the fifth son of the Kaiser, has chosen for her endeavors the field that requires the greatest courage and most arduous service—the firing line. As a Red Cross nurse she has been on more than one occasion seen at the front and it is expected that after a brief rest she will return again to the field.

HOPE TO AVERT ANY
BIG RAILWAY STRIKE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Winnipeg, Oct. 24.—Hope of averting a strike of conductors and trainmen of the Canadian Pacific railway, who are demanding increased pay and rearrangement of working hours, was strengthened today by the resumption of negotiations between railroad leaders and officials of the road.

Government officials succeeded in bringing the two sides together for a final attempt to agree on terms, and thus prevent the strike set for tomorrow night.

UPHOLDS ORDINANCE ON EIGHT HOUR DAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Oct. 24.—The supreme court today sustained the validity of the ordinance enacted by the city of Milwaukee, prohibiting the employment of labor on public work contracts for more than eight hours a day.

On Raulf, Jr., the appellant, was arrested and charged with violation of the ordinance. He pleaded not guilty, and by way of defense alleged the ordinance in question was void. He was found guilty by the lower court, and he appealed. The opinion by Justice Rosenberry says: "Without expressing any opinion impliedly or otherwise that such is the fact, if legislation of this character is to be upheld, it is not to be upheld on the basis of its tendencies, and results in increased burdens, the remedy rests with the people themselves. The remedy is legislative and political and is not to be found in the judicial field. The field of legislative discretion is broad, and as long as legislative measures stay within its limits, their enactments are the law of the land."

"We conclude, therefore, that the ordinance in question is valid and that the defendant was properly convicted and restrained. Judgment affirmed."

GIRL CARRIES GUN
"JUST TO BE SAFE"

Appleton, Oct. 24.—"Up home most of the people carry revolvers, and I thought I had better take one with me when I came to Appleton. It is dangerous in the big cities they told me, and I wanted to be safe. I didn't intend to hurt anyone. Just wanted to be safe."

This was the excuse given by a young girl named Miss London from Norway, Mich., who caused a wild panic on a street car last evening when a big revolver dropped to the floor of the car. The girl stooped and hastily picked it up and placed it in her handbag. But the conductor saw her, and fearing trouble, told a policeman, who took her in charge. Investigation showed the girl wanted work and so was turned over to civil relief work of the city.

CITY BUDGET
ESTIMATED
AT $175,000

INCREASE OF $15,000 OVER LAST YEAR IS INDICATED IN PRELIMINARY ESTIMATES.

EXPECT ACTION TODAY

City Council Will Probably Cut Down Several Items at Their Meeting Late This Afternoon.

Indications are that Janesville's tax budget for next year will top that for 1916. City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund, this morning had compiled figures, some fixed, some estimates, to lay before the commission at their regular meeting this afternoon, which showed that the budget as it now stands is fifteen thousand dollars above that of 1915. It is expected, however, that considerable cutting down in instances where the appropriation requests are believed to be excessive.

This year's budget was $159,713 against $175,000 as estimated for the ensuing twelve months.

Figures given below show the appropriations requested by the industrial and continuation school board, the board of education, the library board and the fire department. The bonded debt fund is $1,000 below the same, $15,000. The general and the highway funds are given in the same figures as last year and neither estimates, since it is felt that neither cannot be stated just what the commission will do with either.

In Chief Henry C. Klein's communication covering the cost of the city for next year he has asked for $30,000 and in addition made the notation that $12,000 or a sum somewhat less will have to be added for water, the exact amount to be determined later through the introduction of new rates.

During the present year water cost the city $7,400. It will double in cost this year and may, even be as high as $15,000.

From the fact that it appears that the city budget will be in excess of last year and also that state taxes for educational purposes will be higher for the year it is felt that even though the city's revenue is slightly higher, the city will be slightly poorer.

Following is a table of the budget for next year. Many changes will be made by the commission before the final sum is determined. The first figures show appropriations requested and the second, that for the present year, shows just what money was voted to carry the city and its institutions over next year.

	Asked for 1916	Approved in 1915
Industrial & Continuation School Board	$7,000	$6,500
Board of Education	53,000	48,000
Library	5,000	4,800
Lighting	15,000	15,000
Bonded Debt	1,000	23,000
General fund	18,000	18,000
Highway fund	16,000	16,000
Total	$175,000	$159,713
Estimated.

BATTLESHIP BIDS OPENED WEDNESDAY

Washington, Oct. 24.—Each of the four new battleship cruisers, bids for which will be opened at the Navy Department December 6, will be 350 feet in length, or 100 feet longer than the world's smallest building, the "Cruiser," which is high, it was learned today.

The cruisers will displace 35,000 tons each, and will be capable of making 32 knots an hour. Each will cost not more than $16,500,000, under the terms of the new naval appropriation. Armor and armament will add another $4,000,000. They will be equipped with 6 and 14-inch guns.

Every effort is being made to hasten the construction of these vessels. Bids already are in for a portion of the armament. The new battleships, bids for four of which will be opened tomorrow will each displace 32,000 tons, and will be 624 feet long. They will mount 16-inch guns.

The new cruisers, therefore, will be more than 200 feet longer than the newest battleships, and will be 624 feet long. Their extreme length, it is said, is necessary to provide room for the very powerful machinery, necessary to propel the vessel at high speed, according to the best information of American naval designers, the most powerful afloat.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Oct. 24.—Application for warrants for the arrest of Chief of Police Healey, William Luthardt, his secretary, and others, on charges of malfeasance and conspiracy, was withdrawn by State's Attorney Henry Hoyne today in the hearing before Chief Justice Olson of the municipal court.

Chief Justice Olson in his ruling permitting State's Attorney Hoyne to drop charges, said on the strength of evidence submitted during the hearing he would have been compelled to refuse warrants asked by the state.

Chief Healey, Luthardt and Charles T. Essig, secretary of the Sportsmen's Club of America, were indicted by the grand jury yesterday. Healey and Luthardt were released on bonds last night. Essig surrendered today.

WANTS MANDAMUS TO GET ON THE BALLOT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Oct. 24.—Thomas Sanderson of Door county asked the supreme court today for a writ of mandamus to compel the secretary of state and county clerk of Door county to place his name on the ballot as independent candidate for district attorney.

Sanderson claims the soldiers' voting law, changing the time at which independent nominations can be filed from twenty to thirty days before election is invalid, basing his contention on the fact that this change in the law was not specified in the governor's call for a special session of the legislature. Relying on the fact that he had until twenty days before election to file under the old law, Sanderson did not get his papers to the county clerk of Door county until after the soldiers' voting law was published. This changed the time for filing independent nomination papers until thirty days before election, and Sanderson's name was not on the list of nominees.

Sanderson claims that this act is illegal.

THEY'RE GIVEN HONOR NOW TO BEST GRENADE HURLER.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Oct. 24.—Throwing the grenade is becoming a popular form of sport in France. A special chevron has recently been designated to be worn on the arm of the best grenade thrower in each company. Besides the army, the sporting clubs have taken up grenade throwing, and grenade matches now take the place of throwing the hammer, the discus, etc. It is claimed that some of the soldiers have thrown a grenade 253 feet, but this is challenged by the sporting experts on the ground that the throwing was not a regular organization and was a free-arm throw. According to the regulations, a grenade cannot be thrown straight from the shoulder, like baseball, but is given a swing and overhand throw, much as a cricket ball is bowled.

CHURCH DEPARTMENT TO AID IMMIGRANTS,
EPISCOPALIAN PLAN

Would Give Attention to Both Physical and Spiritual Needs of Newcomers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 24.—A church department of immigration which would administer not only to the spiritual welfare, but also to the physical needs of immigrants coming to the United States, will be a part of the organization of the Protestant Episcopal church if a memorial submitted to the general convention in session here today is adopted.

The memorial coming from the diocese of Washington, D. C., is on the calendar of the house of deputies of the convention for discussion today. It asserts that many students of the situation believe that the close of the European war will bring aliens to the United States in larger numbers than ever before in history. With these people facing new problems in a strange land, it continues, there is a large and fertile field for the work of the church.

With the convention rapidly drawing to a close, every effort is being made to expedite its business. It was expected that discussion of the memorial would be completed by the close of common prayer, temporarily set aside in the house of deputies last week, would be resumed today. This, however, with the larger numbers than ever before in history. With these people facing new problems in a strange land, it continues, there is a large and fertile field for the work of the church.

Announcement was made from the house of bishops that it had received nominations for all the vacant missionary bishoprics of South Dakota and western Colorado, and that it would proceed with the election today. Only one nomination was received, and only sitting behind closed doors, no announcement of the names of the clergymen being considered, was made.

A final adjournment of the convention has been set for five o'clock next Friday.

The house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal general convention today adopted a resolution favoring such action in our legislative assemblies as will preserve the large interest of temperance and aid in repression of liquor traffic.

The house of deputies also adopted a resolution calling for a nominal censorship of moving pictures.

New York, Oct. 24.—Official announcements of the terms of the new loan to Great Britain by American financiers are expected here before the close of this week.

A security collateral representing between $225,000,000 and $350,000,000 will be offered under tentative plans to be made public officially today. This will consist of American stocks and bonds mobilized by the British treasury and Canadian issues and complications of neutral countries.

The suggested terms are virtually the same as those arranged when Great Britain borrowed $250,000,000 in the United States last August.

GERMANS BREAK DOWN REPEATED ATTACKS OF FRENCH AND BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE.

CALL DEFEAT SEVERE

All Along the Line Dead Lie Piled Up in One Row After Another, Says Berlin Statement—Serbs Continue to Gain.

Berlin, Oct. 24.—In an attempt to break through the German lines on the Somme, the British and French yesterday used great numbers of troops in repeated attacks, the war office announced today. Their assaults broke down with heavy losses. The defeat of the allies was so severe, the statement says, that all along the road the dead are lying in one row after another. South of the Somme a French attack met similar results.

Gain Still Disputed.
London, Oct. 24.—The ground gained by us yesterday in the neighborhood of Gueducourt Lesbois, on the Somme front, has not been fully secured, the war office announced today.

During the night there was nothing to report except intermittent shelling on both sides.

In answer to the enemy's claim that the gains of Serbien, Schwaben redoubt and Le Sars were won only at the expense of heavy losses on our part, it may be noted that the troops engaged, which took over 1,000 prisoners, had only about 1,200 casualties.

Artillery Exchanges.
Paris, Oct. 24.—French and German artillery forces were busy last night south of the Somme, where an artillery duel raged in the Blaches-Abbaye region. There was no infantry action along the French front in the Somme region, the war office announced today.

Three German aeroplanes were brought down in the course of twenty aerial combats that occurred yesterday in the Verdun region during a thick mist.

Serbs Still Winning.
Paris, Oct. 24.—Serbian troops operating in the Ceran region, on the Macedonian front, have won a new success, according to today's announcement by the war office. A counter attack launched by German and Bulgarian troops was stopped by Serbian artillery. The Serbs then attacked the opposing lines and captured several trenches. On the Struma front there was inactivity. River floods are interfering with the movement of troops.

COUNTY'S STATE TAX $127,449 THIS YEAR

AMOUNTS TO AN ADVANCE OF $2,000 OVER LAST YEAR'S LEVY IN ROCK COUNTY.

INCREASE FOR SCHOOLS

Boost in County's Valuation By Tax Commission Raises the Tax for Common Schools.

Not including special assessments, Rock county will pay total state taxes this year of $127,449.66, according to the announcement at the office of Secretary of State Donald today. When special assessments are included the amount to be collected in Rock county is $140,540.25.

Of the $127,449.66 collected in Rock county next January the following are the amounts and purposes for which the money is to be used:

Certificates of indebtedness	$4,141.50
Free high schools	$3,700.00
Graded schools	$5,667.78
University	$5,761.48
Normal schools	$15,993.88
Common schools	$11,838.08
General purposes	$2,833.00

This gives a total of $127,449.66 compared with last year's $125,449.66, an increase of $2,000. The increase is due to the fact that the county's valuation for 1916 was $125,419, divided as follows:

Interest on indebtedness	$4,460.00
Free high schools	$3,700.00
Graded schools	$5,667.78
General purposes	$2,833.00
State university	$5,761.48
Normal schools	$15,993.88
Common schools	$11,838.08

Special charges against Rock county brought the gross total to $139,531. The summary indicates that practically the entire levy, both last year and this year, goes for school purposes. The increase in the amount for common schools is due to the fact that the tax commission's figures on the true valuation of the county, the rate remaining the same, but the amount rising with advance in assessment.

Throughout the state the amount of state tax to be collected next year is $4,579,758, as compared with $4,480,738 this year. Of the $4,579,758 to be collected by the state, it will be used as follows: certificates of indebtedness, $148,820; common schools, $2,198,768; graded schools, $200,000; university, $1,285,048; normal schools, $1,285,048; and general purposes, $1,000.

Comparing last year's total state tax with this year's there is an increase of $148,022 for the entire state. The increases are for the following purposes:

University	$47,649.00
Normal schools	$15,993.88
Common schools	$11,838.08

Total increases $157,722.00.

Because the state is paying off the certificates of indebtedness under the law passed at the last session of the legislature, there is a reduction in interest of $8,760. Deducting this gives $148,022.

G. A. R. POST GIVES PARTY FOR COMRADE

Twenty members of W. H. Sargent Post, G. A. R., met by appointment at the post hall yesterday afternoon for a party in a body to the home of their comrade, Charles H. Smith, 211 North Bluff street, for the purpose of giving him a surprise on his 75th birthday. This is the first time that a party of this kind has been given to a comrade of the post. Mrs. Lee had planned everything nicely for the occasion and whether or not it was a surprise to her father and mother as it was a very pleasant affair for all concerned. Seated in a circle the old veterans of bygone days rehearsed their individual experiences away back in war times and the old comrades are able to do. As a small testimonial of their fraternal love, the comrades of the Post there assembled, placed in the hands of E. O. Kimbrey, a serviceable case to be presented to Mr. Smith, after which Mr. Kimbrey sang, "We Were Comrades Close Together," and followed in a recitation of "The Old Comrades." Refreshments, in several courses, were served promptly at four o'clock by his daughter, assisted by her lady friends and neighbors. Mr. Smith was a member of Company A, 18th Wisconsin regiment, and although having attained the allotted age of mankind and more, bids fair to remain some time in the land of the living. Of the number present at this celebration the average age taken was seventy-four years.

Following is the list: L. M. Nelson, past commander; Charles H. Smith, E. O. Kimbrey, C. N. Riker, L. H. Lee, A. F. Hall, John Reeder, Frank Childs, H. M. Weaver, E. Carter, W. C. Kimbrey, L. E. Winslow, George Gooch, James Hurd, M. Bow, C. L. Morse, C. J. Schottle, R. R. Reagle, P. Schrader, P. Murphy, A. M. Glenn.

PRICE OF FLOUR SHOWS INCREASE

All increases of Price Can't Be Explained By the Grocer.—Flour

Retail merchants are at a loss to explain the constant advance in the prices of practically every commodity which they handle. Some things can be more directly attributed to the increase in the cost of the raw materials, but after all these are explained, according to the grocer, there are still a number of articles on which the price is steadily increasing without any apparent reason other than the desire of the producer to charge more for it. All this is charged by the retailer. The producer, on the other hand, does not show figures explaining his stand.

The consumer, however, suffers no matter where the increase may lie. Flour has gone up to $2.75 a bushel. Prices on fancy patents are quoted in the great flour markets as sixty-five cents in advance of the price asked early last week. Sugar has jumped a few cents, for only thirteen pounds are offered for a dollar, whereas a little while ago it sold at fourteen and fifteen pounds per dollar.

One grocer this morning stated that the prices of nearly everything else sold that was of a flowing market, that is, those articles which were sold rapidly and which had to be purchased often, increased so rapidly that the prices of these articles will equal wholesale prices of next week.

The vegetable and fruit market is still holding out well with little increase in price, and with even better goods than last week.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

FATHER, HERE'S MONEY TO PUT THE MORTGAGE ON THE FARM.

WHAT? IT HAS BEEN THE TRICK OF OUR LIVES.

TRouble is the spice of life. Oh, we do not make enough out of our troubles. We could get so much more out of them if we tried. Trouble does more for any one thing than we try to make us happy. And frequently we let trouble pass without looking at it twice.

Every day we are being offered new troubles, because old troubles soon get like old shoes and we soon forget we have them.

Like most of the other pleasures of life, trouble is mostly in the mind. It depends very little upon material things. We must abandon ourselves to trouble and enter into the spirit of it. We cannot stand off and view trouble impersonally and impartially and expect to enjoy it to its full.

There is more pleasure in the anticipation of trouble than there is in its realization. Sometimes when trouble comes it is a disappointment. It is not as keen as we expected it to be.

The memory of old troubles is sweet, although there is sometimes danger of dulling the glamor of present troubles by recalling troubles of the past. We are apt to think: "No trouble can be half as delightful as the nervous strain I went through when I broke my leg in 1907."

Do not lessen present troubles by reminding yourself of the good old troubles of bygone days.

And remember to try to keep as many of your troubles in the future as you can. A trouble often vanishes, the moment it arrives, so do not hurry trouble. Dream over it. Revel in anticipation of it. That is, when leads enchantment is truer of troubles than anything else in the world.

The sad, sad thing about trouble is the shortness of its stay, once it has come.

More feet are ruined by improperly fitted shoes than from any other cause. The customer is somewhat to blame for this in demanding a size which should not be worn although the shoe apparently feels all right. But in the majority of cases the clerk does not know how to fit scientifically.

Our clerks have been coached in the proper fitting of a shoe by experts. Take their advice and in later years you will be thankful you did.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Rain tonight and Wednesday; warmer tonight except extreme southeast portion. Colder Wednesday.

MERELY AN INCIDENT.

Whether this or that prominent business man announces himself in favor of one of the candidates for the presidential election or not does not mean the selection of their choice by any means. It is the people who vote and the individual who works for a measure, and the individual who controls the same rights as a man who controls millions. An eastern exchange takes the question of this ultra vote and has the following interesting conclusion to make public after having gone into the pros and cons of the subject under discussion.

"It is apparently no part of the business of a political campaign to keep the issues clear. The common sense vote being so insignificant in comparison with the Hindu-American vote, or the farmer vote, or the labor vote, that both facts and logic are suspended by unanimous consent, while the necessity for attaining office is, as Mr. Bryan used to say, paramount."

"In coming out for Wilson, President Underwood of the Erie climbed over the Adamson law barricade far more awkwardly than did Judge Lovett, who frankly called it one of Mr. Wilson's mistakes and then manfully swallowed it."

"But Mr. Underwood backs the whole thing by first attempting to describe the eight-hour day as the result of the president's best judgment and then to dismiss it as 'past discussion.' Mr. Underwood, as one of the most practical members of a practical profession, knows that the real discussion of the eight-hour propaganda in connection with railroad train service has not even begun. He himself will not say anything to say about it hereafter. The brotherhoods will likewise see to it that the Adamson law is not 'past discussion' after the election. It accomplishes temporarily a sharp increase in wages, which was their immediate object. It does nothing for a shorter working day beyond mildly encouraging the idea of it. In the face of the fact that the brotherhoods would agree with the Mr. Underwood of the interview."

"One can imagine the usually hard-thinking president of the Erie commenting with his rough incisiveness upon the news from Birmingham. In any other than a presidential year Mr. Underwood would be quick to point out that the President-Johnson Co. is getting war prices for more shoes than it ever made before, that it can order its employees back upon a ten-hour schedule whenever demand or prices fall off, and that its men do not have to drop an unfinished shoe twenty or thirty miles from anywhere when the eight-hour whistle blows."

"It is not a surprising nor significant that the shoe men can agree with President Wilson about the Adamson law. It costs them nothing to do that. As for the change in working conditions in their own factory, they are not the only manufacturers who have been forced by the war boom to give their men better conditions and rates of pay."

DISREGARD TRUTH.

In their efforts to discredit Governor Philipp his political enemies use every means in their power to belittle his efforts in behalf of the taxpayer and so to make him unjustified by bringing into the political issue questions of religion and nationality. If they were fair about these attacks it would not be so bad, but they resort to untruths, plain and unadulterated lies, to introduce a certain class of voters. Unfortunately some of these attacks are so subtle that it is hard to sift the truth from the untruth and compel retorters in time to reach all the readers of the first article. It is the meanest kind of politics but is characteristic of the men who are conducting the attacks upon the state administration without rhyme or reason. However the voters of the state have the right of selection at the polls on November 7th and their will is law, so we may hope for the best results by an enormous endorsement of Philipp and the entire republican ticket election day.

THE AUTO LAW.

Parking automobiles on Main or Milwaukee street, within a hundred feet of the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets, is now prohibited by a city ordinance, nor are teams to be allowed to be hitched there. This new ordinance and the enforcement of the turning a sharp corner will do much to obviate the crowded condition of the streets during rush hours. The city officials are also seeking to eliminate the meeting of street cars at this corner and compel them to turn right on Franklin instead of Main and Milwaukee streets, which would also be a great benefit to pedestrians and vehicle drivers. By and by these laws will be enforced and show the wisdom of their enactment.

A STEP FURTHER.

The action of the city authorities in taking the radical action to enforce the state laws relative to the sale of cigarettes or cigarette materials to minors is to be commended and heartily endorsed by citizens generally, whether parents of youths addicted to the tobacco habit or not. It is the first step in the right direction. Another which might well follow is the closing of the pool rooms to boys under twenty-one, as prescribed by the state law which is most plainly printed and most flagrantly violated by the majority of pool room proprietors. The sale of liquor to minors is pretty well stamped out except in isolated cases where the purchaser perjures himself and is given accommodation owing to his size and appearance. With the cigarette law enforced and the pool rooms investigated it is possible the new city attorney might find plenty of call for his services.

Two weeks more and then the election will be practically over and the next president chosen by the voters of this great country of ours. Meanwhile our soldier boys who never went to war, come back from the south sick and without positions while suffering and want is the part of the families and many who have not returned. Yet we never went to war?

PEACE—AND SOME P'S.

While President Roosevelt prates of peace, ex-President Roosevelt dishes up a few P's for the delectation of the public.

Commenting upon the activities of the German U-boats, which, he declares, brings war so near us that "it stares at us from just beyond our three-mile limit," he says that this country faces a critical situation "without policy, plan, purpose or preparation."

These P's put pep into the peculiar situation which is so perturbed by the pussyfooting of our pacifist president. After more than two years of war at distance from the sparks, however, falling everywhere, as Mr. Wilson once said, we find war at our doors by invitation of the administration and no preparations for meeting it.

That rummage sale of the ladies in the interest of the great room proved a success and aside from swelling the treasury of organization also gave the purchasers an opportunity to be independent and purchase at a nominal figure needed articles.

Great surprise is expressed by the older people that the modern boy wants to be out at night seeing what is going on, instead of sitting at home reading Rollin's Ancient History.

The reason why people do not black their own boots may not be so much that shoe polish has gone up, as that they think someone will find out that they were trying to save ten cents.

It is not a bit too late to join the Y. M. C. A. If you have not already done so. They need members and will be glad to enroll you as one if you do not belong.

With British warships scouting for German U-boats near our coast, our submarines are advised to keep away. Perhaps they could not get that far from shore anyway.

The man who says advertising is not read is probably the same one who makes it a habit to drop into the barber's shop so as to get a chance to see the paper.

If leather goes still higher, the girls can console themselves with the idea that wooden shoes would make considerable noise and attract much attention.

The quickest way to demonstrate to yourself that your automobile is used up and that you need a new one, is to step on the accelerator instead of the brake.

"I should worry" is the motto of the owner of the automobile bought on borrowed money, as he contemplates the depreciation of the car.

Anyway, the Mexican border commission meets every day and says Good Morning and Good Night, principally the latter.

Nothing seems to be standardized yet about the modern dances except the prices the dancing teachers charge.

The politicians promise to protect American rights, particularly the right to a share of the pork.

Cotton is now at the highest price for forty-five years. No wonder all wool clothes cost high.

Constable Hicks stood in the middle of Pick's Pike chewing on a sissenstrass root and polishing up his badge. The time was midnight. Suddenly a shadowy figure ahead of a cloud of dust, Daredevil Dewlap, big yellow Scudabout came tearing along at a 107 mile clip.

"Holy cornstossel! ejaculated Constable Hicks. And whipping a lighted red lantern from his capacious back pocket, he waved it vigorously. Daredevil Dewlap stopped his car so suddenly that his cloud of dust caught up with him.

"Hey, looky here—" began Constable Hicks. "Nonsense old sport, I was just creeping along," cried Daredevil Dewlap heartily. "Here, take this and think it over." And he pressed a fourteen dollar bill into Constable Hicks' hand and in another second had disappeared in front of an entirely fresh cloud of dust.

"Jumpin' Josenstrat!" exclaimed Constable Hicks, and tossing the bill carefully into his cash pocket, made after the Scudabout. He came upon Daredevil Dewlap on his back in the middle of the road while the incapacitated Scudabout lay prone across a fallen grapefruit tree. Constable Hicks shook the unconscious

Uncle Amber
Some day, maybe, somebody will invent an automobile that won't be in tire complaint, but it won't be in several hundred years.

Miss Anastasia Tibbitts, our soprano, says she is never nervous when she gets up to sing. Perhaps not, but the audience always is.

Some fellows act like it was a crime to be seen making their own lawn, so they let their wives do it.

Mr. and Mrs. Anse Judson expect to go and hear grand opera on a phonograph over at West Hickeyville.

Money isn't everything in this world, not if you have got plenty of it.

Ansel Jimkey says he hopes some day to be the best mandolin player in the world, which is our idea of a punk ambition.

Another enemy of the human race is the fellow who invented the foldie chair for funerals.

How to Save Money
When your wife asks you for ten cents, make such a fuss about it that she will think you are the injured party and will beg your forgiveness with tears in her eyes. Then put on your hat and go down town and buy yourself four or five fifteen cent drinks, asking the bartender to have one with you every time, and smoke several expensive cigars.

When you buy an automobile get a $7 one and then spend $97 a week on it for repairs at the garage.

Always buy thirty-seven cent shirts, two or three of them every week, wear them once and throw them away.

Rent a house on the outskirts of the city because it is cheap and then spend the difference and some more in car fare for yourself and family.

Go without overshoes and save $1 and then have pneumonia and spend $198 in doctor's bills.

Buy your goods of a mail order house and then buy them over again at home.

Hire a $7 man to fill a $70 job and then spend your time correcting his mistakes.

PHILIPPINES TO BOOST AS FIBRE INDUSTRY CENTER.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Manila, Oct. 24.—Plans looking to the raising of the Philippine Islands to the position of the fibre center of the world are being undertaken by the bureau of agriculture. Hemp grading established last year by law, has done wonders for the hemp industry and now the bureau is turning its attention to maguey and sisal in an effort to threaten Mexico's supremacy in these products.

Cheap stripping machines are to be provided to encourage the production of cleaner fibre, fibre literature is being distributed among all growers, samples of maguey and sisal burlaps are being sent to all the fibre producing sections and everything is being done to promote fibre production on a large scale.

Movie Actresses and Their Hair

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, (this is a secret), many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture which they make up for themselves by putting a teaspoonful of canthrox, (which they get from the druggist), in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. After its use their hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness is delightful, while the stimulus scalp gains the health which insures hair growth. Advertisement.

PLAIN ADMISSION OF IGNORANCE OF EIGHT HOUR LAW

Even Head of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Can Not Explain Results to Come.

(Special to the Gazette.)
New York, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Warren S. Stone, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and one of the four men chiefly responsible for driving the Adams law through congress under the threat of a nation-wide strike, has made a plain admission, over the grand old of the brotherhood, to all its officers and members, that he is "not in position to give any definite information" about the Adams law, because he does not know yet just what the law means. He made this admission in a circular letter addressed to the officers and members of all divisions, and to the chairman and secretary-treasurers of all general committees of adjustment. The circular was dated at Cleveland, Ohio, October 19, 1916. It was signed by Mr. Stone as grand chief engineer, and by assistant grand chiefs, C. W. Williams, J. J. Kennedy, C. J. Corigan, and J. J. Montgomery.

"We are requesting definite information regarding the application of the Adams law," says the circular, "but we are not in position to give any definite information on this subject, because we do not know yet just what the law means. We are, however, from time to time furnishing the general chairman with such information as is obtainable in the matter."

The day before Mr. Stone and his colleagues signed this circular, Charles E. Hughes discussed the Adams law in a speech at Newark, New Jersey. "Hasty legislation is likely to carry with it unwelcome surprises," he said. "If eight hours is to be a measure or standard of a day's work for the purpose of reckoning the compensation to be paid, there are those men left who complete the prescribed number of miles in less than eight hours. Have they any assurance, if they are to be paid under this bill on a basis of hours, that they will be paid on a basis of miles when they work less than eight hours? And how will a rigid eight hour basis of pay affect present current rates? There is much food for thought in this legislation, not only on the part of those for whom it does not provide but also on the part of those to whom it expressly refers."

It is apparent from the statement of the circular sent out by Mr. Stone and his colleagues that they are beginning to do some of the thinking about the Adams law which Mr. Hughes suggested that they do in his Newark speech. And they are finding that the law is not so clear as it might be. They are beginning to pay one of the penalties for haste.

But there is one man who affects to know just what the Adams law means, and inasmuch as it was his surrender to the threat of a strike by the brotherhood that drove the bill through congress, he certainly ought to know all about it. He is President William Wilson, who signed the bill. Time and again since he signed the bill with four gold pens, and gave one to each brotherhood chief as a sacred souvenir, he has proclaimed the "eight hour law" as he always describes it, as an accomplishment of service to labor and to humanity.

Since Mr. Stone and his colleagues are in such doubt as to the meaning and application of this law, why don't they apply to Mr. Wilson for real information? Is there anything in their experience with him which has caused them to begin to doubt his omniscience? Perhaps there is.

Other speakers who are contributing to the public discussion of this law are wondering how it is that railroad men such as Lovett, of the Union Pacific, and Underwood, of the Erie, are so enthusiastic in their support of the law, while those who are so displeased with the Adams act? asks Henry J. Allen, the well-known Kansas labor leader. By labor or for labor? This wage increase did not come out of Wilson's pocket, or out of the pocket of the administration. No eight-hour postal clerks or other postal employees. No. That raise would show in the Wilson administration's appropriation bill. How often have labor sage counselors warned it away from entangling alliances. One proud boast of labor, that its vote could neither be bought nor delivered. Has endured until now only to be sold to the party soliciting this vote with a rainbow just before election?

"TANKS" NOT NEW; INVENTED IN 1854

London, Oct. 24.—The armored cars or "tanks" as they are called, which walk through stone walls and over trenches, are far from being new ideas in warfare. Way back in 1854, an inventor named James Cowen, constructed a "tank" similar to those now in use on the British front, except that it was propelled by steam.

Cowen described his invention as a "land and sea locomotive steam rammer, or battering machine." It was capable of effectually annihilating cavalry and infantry and crushing artillery batteries. Unfortunately, the authorities refused to build or help build any of these machines, much to Cowen's dismay.

The inventor was so enraged over the government's refusal of his plans that he issued a pamphlet telling the public of his wonderful death-dealing machine and of the pettiness of the men in power at that time. The pamphlet, reprinted in London papers today, shows Cowen's juggernaut, a heavily armored locomotive belching fire from guns fore and aft. In bold lettering over the picture, Cowen says: "submitted to Lord Palmerston and his colleagues and by them submitted to a select committee of the most experienced veterans of the age—supposed to be (?) but in reality washed-out old women and gentle men in power at that time. They caused the machine, models plans, etc., to be conveyed, mark—at my own expense."

For Johnny Bull is a craven animal after his truly Beloved God—Money; and never parts with it willingly, but freely allows himself to be robbed of it by his rulers and task masters while he dozes in dreams of his Freedom and Liberty; and this idol of Lucre has only obtained after wading ankle deep in blood all over the world—and this is his greatness!

Cowen asserts in a note at the bottom of his pamphlet that the select committee of veterans refused to consider his plans because the rammer could not be offered by a host of poor relations of the Upper Ten Thousand "supported by half starved serfs." He was undoubtedly venting his spleen upon men who refused to consider such an advanced idea for those days.

The refusal stands out in bold contrast to the lightning action of the present-day authorities who enthusiastically furthered the project for the new armored car.

MITZI CAPTIVATES LARGE AUDIENCE

Comic Opera "Pom-Pom" Featuring the Diminutive and Dainty Star Presented Last Night at Myers Theatre by Henry W. Savage to Packed House.

There was something unusual about this comic opera. It had no plot. It was a comic opera with a regular plot is a rare bird. Were it not for a generous amount of amiable fooling it might have been christened a musical comedy. It was a story that runs like this:

Mitzi appears as Paulette, prima donna of the Olympic Theatre in Nice. At the moment of the beginning of the play she is the toast of the young blades of the town, but her life has not always proceeded in pleasant grooves. In earlier days she was about such dire poverty that she was about to drown herself, and was only saved by the clinging arms and pleading eyes of a fascinating stranger. Love was mutual and instantaneous, but they parted without knowing each other's names.

The curtain rises upon the first performance of Paulette as the boy-thief in "Pom-Pom," the Pick-pocket. Now she stands in the wings about to go on the stage she discovers that she has left her skeleton keys in her dressing room. Now skeleton keys are a very necessary prop for an all-around thief. "Pom-Pom," so she rushes down to her dressing room and falls right into the plot, for burglars are robbing her dressing room at that instant. No doubt having been attracted hither by the stories the Olympic Theatre press agent has been landing in the Nice daily papers, a police inspector in disguise, who has heard of the plot to rob Paulette and swoops down with his minions to take the whole bunch in and in the confusion carries away the skeleton keys. Paulette enters in a spirit of the occasion and sees in the event a chance to pick up local color and gaily accompanies the thieves to prison. She soon manages to convince that she is really one of them and they all run away to The Black Elephant, an underworld resort, frequented by thieves and pick-pockets, dips and plain and crooked.

Mitzi's adventures ensue—comic, serio-comic and serious. Her new world suspects her, tests her; she makes good and they applaud her. She dances and sings to entertain her captives and everything is going on swimmingly when her stage-fall and conferees of the first act come to her rescue, aided by the police inspector in disguise, whom she recognizes as the fascinating stranger who in her early days saved her from drowning.

The production is the most notable one Henry W. Savage has sent on the road in years and possesses a charm for the connoisseur of amusements.

The delightful personality of Mitzi is given full scope. She charms with her voice and dances her way into the hearts and affections of her audience. She has a number of catchy songs, among which are two, "Evelyn" and "The Dark," which the audience insisted upon her repeating a number of times. Assisting Mitzi was a large company, including Tommy McVann, one of the best comedians of the stage. Others in the cast were Carl Gantvoort, a splendid baritone, Rita Dane, Tom Walsh, Harry Child and Bessie De Vole.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

"Gracious, is there anybody in the studio who has not kissed me?" demanded Marguerite Courtot the other day after she had spent an entire morning in rehearsing scenes for "The Kiss," in which she is co-starring with Owen Moore. As the title suggests, osculation forms an important part in the story, and, of course, there are always interested young men who have original ideas on the subject when pretty girls are concerned.

When the title was suggested, and it was known that Miss Courtot was to play the girl, competition was keen for the opposite role, but Director Del Henderson decreed that Moore was to be the lucky man.

SHOOK MARY.
Mary Pickford herself, found an eighty-four old vegetable woman in the streets of the east side in New York to play the part of an old lady in her new movie, "Less Than the Dust."

The old lady was born in Italy. She was active as any woman of half her age. The role required no practice. She was to do exactly what she had been doing for years—sit in the sun by a stand of fruit and vegetables.

And the situation in which she was to appear was one so painfully familiar to her.

Mary, as a wife, was to grab a bit of fruit from the stand and run. The old lady was to take after her in anger. Mary was to stumble, and the fruit vendor was to catch her by the arm and shake her while recovering the stolen peach.

Everything went off exactly as planned, except for the degree of realistic and emotional force the dear old lady put into the shaking. She shook little Mary so hard she nearly shot her teeth. It's said to be one of the most effective bits in all the seven reels of "Less Than the Dust."

Eleanor Crowe, after a location trip to Little Bear Lake with Director Oscar Apfel's company, decided one was losing a great deal of the enjoyment of a California vacation by living in hotels, so upon her return to Tropico, where the bungalow they have secured is surrounded by a variety of "green things growing."

Miss Eleanor, who is but twelve years old, is an important factor in the Apfel picture now being produced.

Indoor Life Makes Fat

TRY OIL OF KOREIN TO KEEP WEIGHT DOWN, OR TO REDUCE SUPERFLUOUS FATS.

People who are confined within doors and who are deprived of fresh, invigorating air and exercise must take precaution to guard against overweight, as fat acquired by indoor life is unhealthy and a danger to the vital organs of the body. Lack of exercise in the fresh air is said to weaken the oxygen carrying power of the blood, so that it is unable to produce strong muscles and vitality and the formation of unsightly and unhealthy fat is the result.

You are 15 or 20 pounds above normal weight, you are daily drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Any persons who are satisfied in their own mind that they are too stout or advised to go to Smith Drug Co. or any good druggist and get a box of oil of korein capsules, and take one after each meal and one just before retiring at night.

The Idyl of Twin Fires

By WALTER RICHARD EATON

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"Forget the dictionary?" I cried. "You are going to stay here a long time—until these roses bloom, or at any rate till the sun-dial has come to flower. Besides, there'll be a lot of things about my house where your advice cannot be spared."

She darted a quick look at me, and turned back to the trellis, where she was nailing up strips. She did not speak, and when I came over to face her, with a post for the next arch, I saw that her half away, blinking her eyelids hard, bit her lip, then picked up the level and set it with a smack against the post. I put my hand over hers—both our hands were dirty—and said, "What is the matter? Are you tired?"

"Please, please—level this post," she replied.

"Are you tired?" "No, I'm not tired, I'm a fool. Come, we must finish the arch."

"I guess we won't do any more arches today," I replied, "or you won't, at any rate. You'll go home and rest."

She looked at me an instant with just the hint of her twinkling coming back. "I'm so unused to taking orders," she said, "that I've lost the art of obedience. Move the post a little to the right, please."

I did so, and we worked on in silence. We had built the wide central arch by the time the sun began to drop down into our faces. There were only five arches more to build.

"I shall write tonight and have the roses hurried along," said I.

We walked back toward the house and looked over the lawn, past the sundial, and saw the farm through the trellis, and beyond the farm the trees at the edge of my clearing, and then a distant roof or two, and the far hills. The apple blossoms were fragrant in the orchard. The persistent song sparrows were singing. The shadow of the dial post stretched far out toward the east.

"It is pointing toward the brook," said I. "Shall we go and ask the thrush to sing?"

She shook her head. "Not tonight," she said briefly, and I walked, gripped and puzzling, up the road by her side.

The next day she pleaded a headache, and I went to the farm alone. "It will be you who will need a rest soon," she said the second morning, as she came down to breakfast and found me hard at work out on the front porch.

"I'm going to take one—with you," said I. "I want to see the country, too."

She smiled a little, and picked up a blue bud, holding it to her nose. She seemed quite far away now. The first few days of our rapid intimacy had passed, and now she was as much a stranger to me as on the first meeting in the place. I said nothing about her coming to the farm; I don't know why. Somehow, I was piqued. In some way, it was all due to my asking her to choose the paint for my dining room, and that seemed to me ridiculous.

There was no sun to wake me in the morning, so that I slept till half-past six. Outside the rain was pouring steadily down, and I found Bert rejoicing, for it was badly needed. After breakfast I waylaid Miss Goodwin.

"No work on the trellis today," said I, swallowing my pique; "I'm going to fix up the south room. I'm going to make twin fires out of some of the nice, fragrant apple wood you haven't saved for me, and hang the Hiroshiges, and unpack the books, and have an elegant time—if you don't make me do it alone."

The girl shot a look around Mrs. Bert's sitting room, where a small owl stood on the mantel under a glass case and a transparent pink muslin sack filled with burst alkaliweed pods was draped over a craven portrait of

Hope Almost Abandoned When She Found Remedy

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Relieves Chronic Case of Long Standing.

After a long period of suffering with liver and bowel trouble that brought on piles, during which she had tried many remedies without obtaining relief, Mrs. Mary J. Jewell, of Berrien Springs, Mich., heard of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and obtained a bottle from her druggist. This simple, inexpensive, laxative compound brought almost immediate relief and Mrs. Jewell wrote to Dr. Caldwell about her case.

In her letter Mrs. Jewell says, "I had tried so many things for the piles, without being helped at all, I had about given up hope of ever being and better. I knew it was the condition of my bowels that caused them, and after I had taken a bottle of your Syrup Pepsin I knew it was just the medicine I needed. I am very grateful to you for sending me the little book—the advice and instructions it gives would teach anyone how to get well and how to keep well."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, free from opiate or narcotic drugs, and is mild and gentle in its action, bringing relief in an easy, heart as soft as his head."

That one of the professors at Princeton has had his domestic trials was recently evidenced when a young woman of rather serious turn endeavored to involve him in a theological discussion.

"Professor," she asked, "do you or do you not believe in infant damnation?"

"I believe in it," said the professor, "only at night."

He was one of those sharp laymen, always ready with a question which he hoped would prove a pierce. So when the new minister came to dine he thought to stump him by asking: "Don't you come across a good many things in the Bible that you don't understand, like the problem of Cain's wife, for instance?" "Oh, yes, of course," acknowledged the clergyman. "Well, what do you do about it?" "My dear friend," replied the minister, laying down his fork, "I simply do just as I would while eating a nice fresh herring. When I come to the bone I quietly lay it to one side and go on enjoying the meal, letting any idiot that insists on choking himself with the bone do so."

"May I read 'The Foundation of the Nineteenth Century,' Doctor Upton?" she said.

"You may read the dictionary, if you wish," I replied.

She went to get her raincoat. It was cold out of doors, and the rain drove in our faces as we splashed down the road. The painters had made a fire in the kitchen range, and as we stepped in the warmth greeted us in a curious, friendly way. I brought several logs of dead apple wood into the big room and soon had the twin hearths cheerful with dancing flames. Then I went back to the shed, and brought the two cushions which had been on my window-seats at college, to place them on the settle. But as I came into the room, instead of finding the girl waiting to sit by the fire, I saw her with sleeves rolled up washing the west window. Her body was outlined against the light, her hair making an aura about her head. As she turned a little, I caught the saucy grace of her profile. She was so intent upon her task that she had not heard me enter, and I paused a full moment watching her. Then I dropped the cushions and cried, "Come, here's your seat! That is no task for a Ph.D."

"I don't want a seat," she laughed. "I'm having a grand time, and don't care to have my erudition thrown in my face. I love to wash windows."

"But 'The Foundations of the Nineteenth Century'?" said I.

"The whole nineteenth century is on these windows," she replied. "I've got to scrub here to get at its foundations."

"But you'll get tired again," I laughed, though with real solicitude. "I didn't want you to come to work—only to be company."

"I don't know how to be company. Please get me some fresh hot water."

My piano, which had stood in the dining room ever since the furniture had arrived, we unboxed, wheeled in to fill the space between the small east windows, and took the covers off.

I looked around. Already the place was assuming a homelike air, and the long room had contracted into intimacy. The girl dropped her rag into the pail, and stood looking about.

"Oh, the nice room!" she cried. "And oh, the dirty piano!"

I went out to begin on the books, and when I returned I brought the piano bench, as well. The girl was busy with the east window, and I set the bench down in silence. She was seated upon it, when I arrived with the third load, and through the house were dancing the sounds of a Bach gavotte.

She stopped playing as I entered, and looked up with a little smile of apology.

"Please go on!" I cried.

She wheeled back and let her hands fall on the keys, rippling by a natural suggestion into the old tune "Amayllis." The logs were crackling. The gay old measures flooded the room with sound. My head nodded in time, as I stacked the books on the shelves.

Suddenly the music stopped, and with a rustle of skirts the girl was beside me. She began to inspect titles, pulling out books here, substituting others there, carrying some to other cases.

I wheeled in load after load. "Lord," I cried, "of the making of many books, or eternal I'll never buy another one, or else I'll never move again."

"You'll never move again, you mean," said she. "Look, all the nice poetry by the west fireplace. Don't the green Globe editions look pretty in the white cases? And Keats right by the chimney. Please, may I put the garden books, and old Mr. Thoreau, by the east fire?"

"Give old Mr. Thoreau any seat he wants," said I. "Only Mr. Emerson must sit beside him."

"Where's Mr. Emerson? Oh, yes, here he is, in a blue suit. Here, we'll plant the rose of beauty on the brow of chaos!"

She took the set of Emerson and placed it in the top shelf by the east fireplace, above a tumbled heap of unsorted volumes, standing back to survey it with her gurgling laugh. "What is so decorative as books?" she cried. "They beat pictures or wall paper. Oh, the nice room, the nice books, nice old Mr. Emerson, nice twin fires!"

"And nice librarian," I added. She darted a look at me, laughed a window opened and sent me cooler rush of rain-freshened air from the fragrant orchard. Then I heard the painters come downstairs, talking, and tramp out through the kitchen. It was five o'clock. But I still read on, to finish a chapter. The painters had departed. The entire house was still.

Suddenly there stole through the room the soft andante theme of a Mozart sonata, and the low sun at almost the same instant dropped into the clear blue hole in the west and flooded the room. I let the manuscript fall, and sat listening peacefully for a full minute. Then I moved across the floor and stood behind the player. How cheerful the room looked, how booky and old-fashioned! It seemed as if I had always dwelt there. How easy it would be to put out my hands and rest them on her shoulders, and lay my cheek to her hair! The impulse was ridiculously strong to do so, and I tingled to my finger tips with a strange excitement.

"Come," I said, "it is after five, and the sun is out. We will go to hear the thrush."

The girl faced around on the bench, raising her face to mine. "Yes, let us," she answered. "How lovely the room looks now. Oh, the nice new old room!"

She lingered in the doorway a second, and then we stepped out of the front entrance, where we stood entranced by the freshness of the rain-washed world in the low light of afternoon, and the heavy fragrance of wet lilac buds enveloped us. Then the girl gathered her skirts up and we went down through the orchard, where the ground was strewn with the fallen petals, through the maples where the song sparrow was singing, and in among the dripping plums. The brook was whispering secret things, and the drip from the trees made a soft tinkle, just detectable, on its pools.

We waited one minute, two minutes, three minutes in silence, and then the fairy clarion sounded, the "cool bars of melody from the everlasting evening." It sounded with a thrilling nearness, so lovely that it almost hurt, and instinctively I put out my hand and felt for hers. She yielded it, and so we stood, hand in hand, while the thrush sang once, twice, three times, now near, now farther away, and then it seemed from the very edge of my clearing. I still held her hand, as we waited for another burst of melody. But he evidently did not intend to sing again. My fingers closed tighter over hers as I felt her face turn toward mine, and she answered their pressure while her eyes glistened, I thought, with tears. Then her hand slipped away.

Another Proof That It Pays to Advertise an Auction in the Gazette

Janesville, Wis., Oct. 19, 1916.

Janesville Gazette,
Janesville, Wis.
Gentlemen:

We wish to thank the Gazette and the people for the great success of our sale held today. The advertising brought people from a distance and we are convinced that anyone who is going to have a sale will get well paid by advertising in the Gazette. We had a very large crowd and served three hundred and fifty lunches. Many came after dinner. We would certainly advise the advertising of an auction in the Gazette. Auctioneer Fred Taves of Beloit, done very fine work for us, also our clerk, T. M. B. Gunn.

Yours truly,

MILTON COLLEGE TEAM
LOSES FIRST GAME IN PERIOD OF TWELVE YEARS

Amidst snow and rain the first game of football in twelve years was played on the Milton College gridiron. At that game Milwaukee Normal defeated the Milton team by a score of 27 to 0. It is little to be wondered at and in fact, it was surprising that Milton should hold them to so low a score. Milwaukee made one touchdown each quarter, their size and power all goes to make them a winning team. Coach Snell was pleased with the Milton players and will do his best to have them win the remaining games. No serious accidents occurred. Ormsby was slightly injured and was taken out in the last half. Dick Burdick was held out on account of a twisted knee. Both these men were sorely missed by the team.

The climatic conditions decreased much of the enthusiasm of the college enthusiasts that would otherwise have been shown.

MORRIS MILLER

Some of the oldest settlers may remember that back in 1884 Charles Radbourne pitched eighty full games for Providence and won the pennant himself. Pitchers have said since that too much pitching ruined Radbourne. It's true that a few years after his record Radbourne went to pieces and could never pitch again. But in that day it was not unusual for a pitcher to pitch fifty or sixty full games a season. After Radbourne blew up managers began work their pitchers not quite so hard. At the same time they have gone a little too far in the wrong direction and today they might very well work their pitchers and expect them to be in their best shape after two days' rest.

The last season has seen the development of some unusually nifty youngsters. George Sisler, Roger Hornsby, Walter Holke and Charley Shorten have shown their talent this past summer and it isn't every season that produces such brilliant youths. Young Al Walters of the Yanks is one of the year's brightest youngsters and is more particularly a 1918 product than any of the others. Walters though not very big is a real catching star as everyone agrees. The well advertised Red Stairs have secured a looker with such clever youngsters as these.

Umpire Bryon having been selected as one of the umpires in the Chicago city series, the clubs concerned concluded not to hire a band. Bryon might have got into the world's series, but the Boston Royal Rooters insisted on doing all the singing themselves.

Any time there is talk of selling a National league club in the east living in the name of James Gaffney, who had a brief spell as owner of the Boston Braves. The report now is that he is one of the bidders for the Brooklyn club. It is hardly likely he will buy, however, as the Brooklyn club already has built a ball park for some time to come.

John McGraw doesn't care whether John Toner, the national commission or anybody else "investigates" his charges that his Giants quit in the final series with Brooklyn. It is reported from New York that he has packed his golf sticks and will be on his way to Cuba to spend a pleasant winter, assured that he will be on the job in Martin Springs in March. All right.

It was the mighty battery of the Robins and their line defense which brought them through the season with more hits to their credit and fewer errors charged against them than any other club in the National league and made Brooklyn the pennant winner in the Texas circuit, according to figures compiled from official box scores throughout the season. In the American league the Red Sox earned the title of titless unless wonders, for they collected fewer runs than all of the other clubs in the league and Washington.

A baseball statistician on going through the dope has found that the Red Sox gave up 45 runs, all season that could be charged to errors while the average of the seven other teams in the American league was around a hundred runs allowed. Some defense, and coupled with good pitching it is a wonder the Red Sox did not win the pennant by a wider margin.

Jack Britton seems to have demonstrated rather conclusively that he is the master of Ted Lewis, the Englishman who once had a pretty fair chance of winning the fight. Jack took Ted to New Orleans, after being whipped twice at Boston, and reversed the decision in a twenty-round battle. Then at Boston the other night Britton whipped Lewis again, winning the referee's decision after generally recognized as the welterweight boss, but he must still dispose of Johnny Griffiths before he can copper rivets his claim to that honor. The Arkon boy held Britton to a draw in his last effort. That, too, was a twenty-round fight, at Boston, with the referee handing down the decision.

ONLY EUROPEAN WAR AVERTED COLLAPSE OF U. S. INDUSTRY

Fairbanks in Speech at Racine Declares Country Faces Financial Ruin Under Democratic Rule.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Racine, Wis., Oct. 24.—In a grilling arraignment of the democratic administration in which he charged that nothing but the European war has saved this country from industrial and commercial collapse during the Wilson regime, the Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, republican nominee for the vice presidency, declared in his speech here Monday night that only under a republican administration can the public be assured of commercial prosperity.

Whenever the democratic party has been entrusted with power under normal conditions, he said, it has debauched industry, closed factories and forced millions of willing workers into idleness. The republican policy of stimulating industry at home has opened new avenues for the wage earner and has aided in maintaining the best wage standard in the world. It has raised the American standard of living and it has made for stability of business everywhere.

Democratic Shatter Prosperity.
"When Mr. Wilson came into power he found the country prosperous. Our industrial centers were busy, labor was fully employed and commerce was active; the income of the government was adequate to meet our necessities without resorting to new or unusual means of taxation.

"When he overthrew the protection policy of the republican party; when he substituted for it a tariff for revenue or free trade, he drove the country into a state of confusion. Doubt and fear took the place of confidence in the market. Factories began to slow down, and the business of the country was blighted by the effects of democracy.

"Such prosperity as we have enjoyed since the democratic party came into power has come in spite of democratic policies and not because of them. There was not the slightest suggestion of prosperity until the European war began.

Saved by European War.
"This prosperity, which is founded on the distress, anguish and misfortune of our brave boys overseas, is only a temporary respite from the economic disaster which has befallen our country. It is not a permanent source of revenue for the government, and it is not a permanent source of employment for the people.

"The tariff for revenue or free trade policy of the democratic party is as destructive to our country's welfare as ever, and when the war ceases and we shall return to our normal conditions, we shall then be forced to eat the bread of repentance. We shall find the jobs of the wage earners greatly reduced. The standard of wages will decline under the renewed and intensified pressure from the competition of 30,000,000 soldiers who will return to the fields of industrial activity in the old world.

Puts Burden on Labor.
"The depression of the past four years has fallen with especial severity upon the great body of toilers of the country. Agriculture has languished and labor has suffered. The revival of manufacturing will be a relief to both. Nothing has ever been made plainer at a general election than that the controlling principle in the raising of revenue from duties on imports is zealous care for American interests and American labor. The people demand such legislation as will give ample encouragement and protection to the industries and the development of our country.

Republican ascendancy in our national affairs means prosperity and democratic ascendancy means, under normal conditions, fewer wage-earners on the payrolls, and reduced pay in the envelopes.

GOVERNOR SHOWS UP FALSE ASSERTIONS MADE BY DEMOCRATS

Meets Opponents' Attacks With Plain and Straightforward Statements of Facts.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—The reaction from the campaign of calumnies which the democrats have attempted against Governor Philipp has swept the state and both the press and the people of Wisconsin are being much aroused by the palpable falsehoods which have been perpetrated by democratic campaign speakers and reinforced by some of the democratic newspapers.

The frank and open answers of the governor to the charges which have been made against him have scattered the last particle of doubt which the allegations originally might have occasioned.

Perhaps the most barefaced of the attempts to place on Governor Philipp responsibility for legislation in which he had no hand either directly or indirectly has been the attempt to make him responsible for the measure giving the railroad commission the right to assess benefits and damages against municipalities for track elevation or depression work to get rid of grade crossings.

The plain explanation of the governor, which of course is known to be a fact by everyone familiar with state legislative history, is that the law was passed in 1901 at the request of the railway commission, and by unanimous vote of the legislature, with such men as Senator Huston, former Lieutenant Governor Morris and Senator Spencer Marsh voting for the bill, thus placing responsibility for the measure with legislators whom the democrats are now praising from the stump. The bill was designed to rid the state of grade crossings by the only feasible method which the railroad commission could propose to avoid the annual grade crossing slaughter.

The only amendment which the legislature passed at the last session in any way affecting this law was a measure providing that where "actual" benefits accrued to a city from the changing of a grade of a sidetrack such benefits might be charged against the city. As a matter of fact there has been no assessment of damages under this amendment against any municipality, and with the word "actual" preceding the word "benefits" such assessments are unlikely, while all assessments which have been made against municipalities for track elevation work have been under the law passed in 1909. It must be remembered that this law is effective not alone in municipalities which had the right previous to the statutes of 1909 to order track elevation, but also can compel track elevation in the country where the towns have no authority to order such track elevation, and where the crossings are abolished at a small expense to the town and at a heavy expense to the railway company.

It is not so much the character of the stories they are circulating against Governor Philipp in their endeavor to place him before the state in a false attitude, as it is the strained and absolutely false position that is being taken by the democrats in their campaign that is arousing the voters in favor of the governor.

JUST put it up to a gentlemanly fellow and watch him take to the tobacco that calls for a small sized chew. A few facts like these appeal to his common sense:—

W-B CUT Chewing is rich tobacco. It's shredded, you get next to all the good tobacco taste. The touch of salt helps bring out the flavor. It's not sweetened and flavored to death—you don't have to keep grinding and spitting.
